

I can't afford to be sick.

You see, I'm 27 and trying to get on my feet. I thought I'd done everything I was supposed to. I work hard. I have a job. I pay my bills. But I can't afford to go to the doctor to make sure I stay healthy.

I was getting worried, so I reached out for help. Victor, one of the NorthShore financial counselors, guided me through the process and put my mind at ease. I was able to get an annual physical and eye exam. Something as simple as glasses make a big difference in my daily life.

I know taking care of the small things now prevents me from having bigger problems in the future. It's so comforting to know that we live in a community that watches out for one another.

Thank you!
